

Peer-Reviewed Publications

Moretti, John A., Deanna Flores, Christopher J. Bell, Will Godwin, Adam Hartstone-Rose, and Patrick J. Lewis.

2024. The scimitar-cat Homotherium from the submerged continental shelf of the Gulf Coast of Texas. The Anatomical Record 2024:1-11. <https://doi.org/10.1002/ar.25461>

John A. Moretti and Eileen Johnson

2023. Small rails from the late Quaternary of the Southern High Plains and their paleoenvironmental context. Ibis 165:1280-1295. <https://doi.org/10.1111/ibi.13212>

Johnson, Eileen and John A. Moretti

2022. Diversity and paleoecology of the Zone 3 late Pleistocene vertebrates at Kincaid Shelter (41UV2), Central Texas, USA. PaleoAmerica 8(3):228-252.

<https://doi.org/10.1080/20555563.2022.2075134>

John A. Moretti

2022. An ancient Thick-billed Parrot (Rhynchopsitta pachyrhyncha) from southeastern New Mexico with a review of archaeological occurrences in the American Southwest. Wilson Journal of Ornithology 134(3):438-454. <https://doi.org/10.1676/21-00078>

Johnson, Eileen and John A. Moretti

2022. Identification of Aztlanolagus agilis from the early Pleistocene of Texas using micro-computed tomography. In: Gary S. Morgan, Jon A. Baskin, Nicholas J. Czaplewski, Spencer G. Lucas, Jim I. Mead, and Richard S. White, Jr. (eds.), Pliocene and Pleistocene Vertebrate Paleontology of the American Southwest: A Tribute to the Career of Arthur H. Harris, New Mexico Museum of Natural History and Science, Bulletin 88:123-137.

Johnson, Eileen, Stance Hurst, and John A. Moretti

2021. Late Quaternary stratigraphy and geochronology of the Spring Creek drainage along the Southern High Plains eastern escarpment, northwest Texas. Quaternary 4(19).

<https://doi.org/10.3390/quat4030019>

Johnson, Eileen, Patrick J. Lewis, and John A. Moretti

2019. Molar microevolution in late Quaternary Ondatra zibethicus (Arvicolinae, Rodentia). In: Robert D. Bradley, Hugh H. Genoways, David J. Schmidly, and Lisa C. Bradley (eds.), From Field to Laboratory: A Memorial Volume in Honor of Robert J. Baker, Museum of Texas Tech University, Special Publications, 71:681-695.

Moretti, John A.

2018. Early Pleistocene leporids (Mammalia, Lagomorpha) of Roland Springs Ranch Locality 1 and the rise of North American Quaternary Leporines. Quaternary International, 492:23-39.

<https://doi.org/10.1016/j.quaint.2017.08.048>

Moretti, John A. and Eileen Johnson

2015. The First Record of the Jumping Mouse Zapus from the Southern High Plains. PaleoAmerica, 1:121-123. <https://doi.org/10.1179/2055556314Z.0000000006>

Non-Peer-Reviewed Publications

Moretti, John A.

In review. Fossil animals of the Llano Estacado and the natural history of water on the southern Great Plains. In John Beusterian and Britta Anderson (Eds.), Water on the Llano Estacado. Texas Tech University Press, Lubbock, Texas.

Moretti, John A. and Christopher J. Bell

2024. Early and Middle Pleistocene of North America. In Scott A. Elias (Ed.), Encyclopedia of Quaternary Science (3rd ed.). New York: Elsevier. <https://doi.org/10.1016/B978-0-323-99931-1.00113-6>

Moretti, John A.

2024. Exploring the end of the Ice Age in Honey Creek Cave. The Texas Caver 68:27-30.

Winter Prosapio and Moretti, John A.

2023. The ancient cats of Natural Bridge Caverns. NSS News 81(4):6-11.

Moretti, John A.

2023. Thick-billed Parrots in the American Southwest: exotic imports or native species? PsittaScene Spring 2023:16-18.

Moretti, John and Eileen Johnson

2011. Explorations in the Early Pleistocene of West Texas. Current Research in the Pleistocene, 28:176-178.